

Unit 2 : Political Beliefs, Opinions, and Behaviors
Exam Review Sheet

Since the entire test questions come from previously released exams, there is some repetition of concepts. Sometimes you will find that a question is asking about what appears to be the same thing, but is actually offering a different correct answer.

To prepare for the exam, please review the following items:

- Review chapters 5, 7, 9 of the textbook
- How the media influences public opinion
- What did the National Voter Registration Act of 1993 do?
- Factors that affect voter turnout in elections
- Factors that influence (skew) public opinion polls
- What is political socialization?
- Overall trends in national elections since 1950s
- Demographics and how people vote: gender, income level, class, etc...
- Identify types of political participation and discuss what advantages each offer
- What characteristics are generally associated with those who ally themselves with the two major parties?
- Single most important determinant of someone's political affiliation

Unit 2 : Political Beliefs, Opinions, and Behaviors
Exam Review Sheet

Since the entire test questions come from previously released exams, there is some repetition of concepts. Sometimes you will find that a question is asking about what appears to be the same thing, but is actually offering a different correct answer.

To prepare for the exam, please review the following items:

- Review chapters 5, 7, 9 of the textbook
- How the media influences public opinion
- What did the National Voter Registration Act of 1993 do?
- Factors that affect voter turnout in elections
- Factors that influence (skew) public opinion polls
- What is political socialization?
- Overall trends in national elections since 1950s
- Demographics and how people vote: gender, income level, class, etc...
- Identify types of political participation and discuss what advantages each offer
- What characteristics are generally associated with those who ally themselves with the two major parties?
- Single most important determinant of someone's political affiliation